

Conference Guide

Once you find a conference you're interested in, find out where it is, as indicated below (for example, MYSTIC PORTAL, SPADES PLACE). These are the waiting room names in the Clubhouse. Once in the waiting room, click the Go to button, select a Conference, and then click on the conference name itself - you'll join immediately. And remember, you can always start your own conference! Just drop a line to box 931. It's that easy!

Please note that the following June Schedule is subject to change, and that the most accurate, up-to-date schedule can always be found on-line in Town Hall under Conference Schedule. All times listed are Pacific Time. All conferences listed in italics are private and require approval from the conference's moderator or host (displayed in parentheses followed by their mailbox number) to attend.

Imagining

WWSpyXa agreed. Bulletin boards are important "to let everyone know about tourism and ladder information."

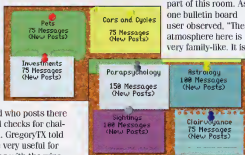

BKLady said the Pilots Lounge couldn't live without its bulletin board area since it has multiple uses, such as finding new pilots and sharing strategies.

Having opinions from the natives of the Pilots Lounge, I jumped to Spades Place where, surprisingly, I found people playing Spades. I met up with RobinHood who posts there for Ladder purposes and checks for challenges addressed to him. GregoryTX told me, "Bulletin boards are very useful for posting Ladder info, along with the wins or losses of fellow Spades players, and for finding challenges made to me on the Ladder Bulletin Boards." He also says he gets different styles of playing Spades just by reading about it in posts, which in most cases improved his game.

From there I climbed up to the Tree

House, where I've been known to post hints for Betrayal At Kronor on the Sierra Games Bulletin Board. Vice noted heated discussions sometimes can form quickly on these bulletin boards, but they also gave new insight on certain subjects. Posting is a good way to convey thoughts, he added.

Although not married, I decided to check out Married Life's Bulletin Boards. Oberle, a regular there, told me he enjoys posting in two flavors: The serious heart-to-heart posting and the really fun posting. Both can be found here. He feels bulletin board posting is a significant part of this room. As one bulletin board user observed, "The atmosphere here is very family-like. It is a lot of fun and there are no real cliques." Bulletin boards "are forums — a way to help each other and learn others' personalities."

Teen members Shellers, Otter, and StinkerBel agree. Bulletin board posting is the biggest reason for going to the Teen Scene. It is the basis for conversation and meeting people.

Married Life is for anyone interested in talking about anything. There are people willing to play games or talk. Most importantly, you don't have to be married to post there. In fact, many single people hang out in Married Life.

Bulletin board posting is a major part of INN and everyone should try it. Check out the Bulletin Board listing in the INN Help Room. It doesn't matter who you are or what you like to do, there is a bulletin board waiting just for you.

I used to post only in certain areas of the Clubhouse. Now, I will post anywhere I can find a bulletin board of interest. Married Life looks like a good place for me. Maybe I'll check out the Pilots Lounge and see if anyone posted a good move on the Air Tactics Bulletin Boards. The possibilities are endless.

Ed. note: When Jimmy came to me with his idea for this story, I encouraged him to check out bulletin boards he had never read. The result was predictable. He found some interesting topics and met some new friends...

Confessions

of a

CASINOLAND

Sysop

The night began like any other, but on this night, my reason for being would be clearly defined. I'm a Casinoland Sysop. I was fielding questions about the latest version and making new friends when things started getting weird. Either the moon was full, or a large group of sailors decided to log on at the same time. The room started to become a tad more colorful than usual. Remember, this is completely acceptable as Casinoland is for adults only, but on this particular night, I saw names that almost made me blush.

Then it happened. The message appeared on my screen in such utter serenity, it made me question where I was. "Pardon me, sir. Could I ask you a question?"

"Sure can," I replied back tossing in a few smiley faces in tribute to the first time I was referred to as "sir" on-line.

"Have you seen some of the names in here?" I sat for a moment, not knowing what to say. My curiosity got the best of me. I decided to look at this member's toon to get a better idea with whom I was talking.

She was an older woman, with a normal name, hobbies and a bio simply stating her city and state. I was thoroughly puzzled. Understand, anything normal is out of the norm in Casinoland. "Yes. ♪ Can I do anything for you tonight? ♪" I answered expecting the worst. She went on to tell me about herself and her dilemma.

She was a grandmother and just retired from a job she had had longer than I've been around. No doubt, she had to get there by walking two miles, uphill, in a blinding snowstorm, both ways.

I truly wasn't worthy. "My husband (probably named "Walt") bought me this computer last year for my retirement. I heard about Imagination through one of

Over the course of our conversation, I discovered that she had worked at a legal firm for 29 years. She was married to a delightful man for 33 years and now spends her days quilting, participating in Church activities and sitting on the porch, drinking lemonade and watching "Walt" play catch with her grandson.

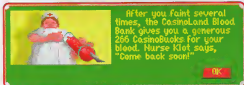

Then it hit me... Polite Place! Yes! This woman was the epitome of polite. She would fit in very nicely among all the other gentle folk who hang out there. I led her to Polite Place! Yes! This woman, thanked her for being patient, and wished her luck.

She found me a few days later. "Victor!" she cried. "I won my poker game!" She was elated. "I want to thank you for taking the time to show me around. It means a lot to me," she said topping-off her text block with smiley-faces.

I didn't do anything beyond what any other Sysop on Imagination would have done, but it's always nice to know I made a difference. I saw her again recently. She is doing great and still meets her friend for Sunday night poker games. Walt still tinkers in the garage.

Short on CasinoBucks? A visit to friendly Nurse Klot at the local Blood Bank will fix you right up.

the local Christian bulletin board services that I frequent." Was I shrinking? I sat up straight so I could reach the keyboard.

"Well, we're happy to have you aboard! ♪ So, what brings you to Casinoland tonight?" I typed back in hopes of not being sent to my room without dinner.

"A very good friend of mine, whom I met through the local BBS, and I heard that you have a very realistic poker game in here. I was supposed to meet her here tonight, but I must admit that I'm a bit taken aback by some of these names. What would you suggest?" she queried.

I wanted to put her mind at ease. I kept thinking about the Poker game that drew her to Casinoland in the first place.

Keeping a poker face is never a problem playing in Casinoland.
